Fire destroys old dance hall

Two early morning Romulus fires have gutted a landmark flea market and a local barber shop, Fire Marshal David Allison reported. A third fire closed the kitchen of the Comfort Inn at 9501 Middlebelt Road.

The first fire was reported at 4:46 a.m. Dec. 4 and destroyed Bob Bernie's barber shop and a single family dwelling at 29605 Ecorse Road (near Hollywood) in Romulus.

Allison said the blaze destroyed the building, but two tenants, Edward Kelly McDaniel and David Charles Wilson, escaped unharmed.

The three-alarm blaze not only destroyed the barber shop, but all of Bernie's equipment including the barber chair, air conditioner, television set and barber style hand tools.

Bernie, who lives in Wayne, said he at first considered retiring after barbering in the Romulus area for 35 years, including 23 years at the site that burned down.

Bernie said, "I may come back to serve my customers, if I can find a place to reopen my barber shop near my old location."

Three days later, Romulus firemen were called out again at 12:05 a.m. last Tuesday to battle a blaze at a city landmark known as Green Lawn Grove at 16447 Middlebelt Road.

The building was built by Matthew Wegienka and his family back in 1949, after a friend offered Wegienka use of a series of trees.

Wegienka said he had the trees sawed into beams and rough lumber and constructed the facility that he used for a number of years as a dance hall.

Wegienka for a number of years provided the musical entertainment for the dancers with his band known as "Matt and his Royal Black Hawks."

In the 60s the dance hall was rented out for rock 'n' roll bands including "Ken and the Silvertones" and "Mitch Ryder and the Detroit Wheels."

The hand-made structure was also used for various social and political rallies in the past and more recently was heavily used as a weekend flea market which attracted hundreds of shoppers on Saturdays and Sundays.

Allison said that the current owner, William Pai of Monroe, could give no estimate of value on items stored inside the building.

Wegienka said his sister-in-law called him last Tuesday to inform him of the fire and then he saw a brief telecast of the firemen battling the flaming building. Allison said firemen remained at the fire scene until about 5:30 a.m.

Wegienka said, "This was mild compared to all the tragedies occurring now in the world. I feel the world is in its 11th hour."

Allison said the cause of the barber shop-apartment fire was listed as accidental, while the cause of the dance hall-flea market was listed as undetermined.

The kitchen fire at the Comfort Inn caused substantial damage to the kitchen and forced it being shut down, Allison said, but the hotel itself remains open and unaffected by the fire.

Allison said the grease fire alarm was called in on a 9-1-1 number about 11:30 p.m. Thursday and forced the temporary evacuation of some guests and employees in the kitchen and lounge area.

Firemen extinguished the fire and used smoke ejectors to eliminate the smoke from that portion of the three-story building.

2 teens found guilty in drive-by murder

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Two Detroit youths were convicted of second-degree murder last Wednesday in the drive-by shooting case of Romulus teen, Bayette (Yogi) Elrod, grandson of Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce Treasurer Jason Lovette.

Elrod, 17, was reportedly sitting on a couch in a home on Whitehorn Street, when more than 20 shots ripped into the house.

Despite the fact a half dozen or more people were in the home celebrating a birthday party at the time of the shooting, only Elrod was struck and killed, police reported.

Ironically, the actual gunman, Nile Miles, was only 15 at the time of the shooting last March 29.

Miles and co-defendant, Kofi Myler, 18 at the time of the killing, will return before Circuit Court Judge William Cahalan for sentencing on Jan. 5. A hearing will also be held at that time, so that Cahalan can decide whether Miles should be sentenced as a juvenile or adult.

Both suspects were found not guilty of felony firearm charges.

Romulus Detective Sgt. Gordon Malaniak said Detroit Free Press Publisher Neal Shine was called as a character witness for Myler, who once was an intern at the Detroit daily newspaper.

Councilman won't give up vote

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Councilman Noah (Pete) Bergeron heatedly refused again Monday night to relinquish his rights to vote on and attend city council executive sessions on the commercial injection well issue.

Bergeron and Romulus Environmental Citizens Against Pollution (RECAP) member Steve Lewkowicz raised the Dec. 13 dialogue to an emotional level again, as Lewkowicz tried to persuade Bergeron to bow out of future environmental well votes and debates.

Bergeron, supported by the verbal backing of City Attorney Barry Seifman, said he would not "yield" his vote, because of various interpretations of the conflict of interest law presented by RECAP members.

Bergeron, son-in-law of John Ryznar, owner of the property on which Environmental Disposal Services has begun to construct a hazardous-non hazardous liquid disposal well, told Lewkowicz and other RECAP members in the audience "no matter what I say, you will claim I'm a liar."

Several in the audience laughed quietly and said, "You've got that right."

Pete Bergeron

Lewkowicz also irked Bergeron, when he claimed it was he not Bergeron who first called for a lawsuit against EDS.

Lewkowicz said he first called for the lawsuit at the massive citizens meeting sponsored by EDS at Romulus Senior High School.

But Lewkowicz was reminded that Bergeron made the motion at a City Council meeting that led to the current city lawsuit against EDS.

Seifman said he based his legal opinion on an analysis he was trying to make using various sections of the state statutes and the city charter.

The city attorney said he would present a printed copy of his recommendation at the Dec. 27 City Council meeting, when Mayor pro tem Mary Ann Banks is present, since she is the official who made the actual request.

Veteran Councilman Jimmie Raspberry served as acting Council Chairman Monday night, as both Banks and Council Chairman Randy Gear were absent. Also missing from the meeting was Councilman William Wadsworth.

Another highlight of the meeting was a half hour report on a commercial injection well in Vickery, Ohio, by Romulus homeowner Royal P. Lilly.

Lilly, a former Romulus Rotary Club president and owner of three homes in the city, offered a brief video presentation of the Vickery well operations, as well as several Ohio newspaper articles concerning the well and its relations with an Ohio citizens group known as Northern Ohioans Protecting the Environment (NOPE).

The NOPE group reportedly obtained a $15 million settlement from the well company in 1990 following a seven-year war of words and charges of environmental concerns.

Letters support deepwell project

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

At least three letters supporting the $6.1 million Environmental Disposal Services (EDS) project in Romulus reportedly have been mailed to Mayor Beverly McAnally.

One dated Dec. 5, 1993 from the office of Ernestine Williams, realtor-owner of the Red Carpet Keim real estate office in Inkster states, "We have endorsed the EDS plans for development of its deepwell facility in Romulus and believe that it will be a positive contribution to the development of this area and will not cause a reduction in property values."

"This project can act as a magnet to attract other industry to this area," Williams continued, "thereby increasing the city's tax base and offering job opportunities for local residents."

The argument regarding property values has been one of the central issues raised by opponents of the well. Copies of the letter were distributed to those attending the city council meeting on Dec. 6.

A second letter to McAnally dated Dec. 10 came from two leaders of the Petrotek Engineering Co., which installed the deep injection well in Romulus, and cited a comment the mayor offered to the Detroit Free Press.

Kenneth J. Cooper and Richard R. Lyle, Petrotek officials, wrote they would like to "further explain some facts regarding the EDS Class 1 deepwell project" following her comment that, "It does not please me to think it (injected fluids) might come up in Van Buren, Inkster or anywhere else."

Cooper and Lyle said, "There has never been an instance of surface or drinking contamination due to the operation of a Class 1 disposal well constructed and operated according to current Environmental Protection Agency standards."

"Because these rigorous siting and construction requirements have been followed in the drilling and completion of the EDS disposal well, there is no basis for fear the waste will 'come up' in Romulus or any other surrounding communities," they said.

And a third letter dated Dec. 13 from William B. Harrison III, professor and director of the Michigan Basin Core Research Laboratory at Western Michigan University, stated, "I have been a Michigan resident for over 20 years and feel strongly that our quality environment in Michigan should be a priority. Rational thought and planning, coupled with innovative technology and resource utilization can be our best ally in the pursuit of environmental protection."

Harrison continued, "I have followed the community and media debate about this facility since I attended a public information session at Romulus Senior High School in October."

"I am shocked by the misin-

Well issue videos set for TV

Video presentations offered by both Environmental Disposal Services (EDS) and Romulus Environmentalist Citizens Against Pollution (RECAP) are slated to be shown on Romulus cable television tomorrow.

Cable Commissioner Gwen Sibert said the RECAP video will be telecast at both 6 and 9:45 p.m. Thursday, while the EDS video will be shown at 9 p.m.

The EDS video is reportedly an overview of injection wells in general and the RECAP video contains interviews with local residents on the issue.

Football coach named for '94

Jim Zoltowski, the 1993 Romulus Assistant Varsity Football Coach, has been named varsity coach for 1994 Eagles squad, Athletic Director Jesse Meriweather revealed this week.

Zoltowski, who also is a school security guard, played high school football for Milan High School. He formerly served as assistant football coach at Wayne Memorial High School.

Meriweather said that Zoltowski is currently attending Madonna University in Livonia in search of a general science teaching degree.

Zoltowski reportedly is planning a weight lifting program next summer prior to the 1994 football season.

The possibility also remains that Romulus High School may be in the recently organized MEGA League.

Movie auditions planned in city

A search for male African American identical twins and triplets between the ages of 2 and 4 is now being conducted by Paramount Pictures and Brody and Schroeder Casting.

The children, who need no movie training skills, will star in an upcoming feature film.

"We will also see boys, who are not twins and are between the ages of 2 and 4," a spokesman said, "if they are exceptionally outgoing and have a fearless personality."

Auditions will be from 10:30 until 2 p.m. Dec. 19 at the Marriott Courtyard at 30653 Flynn Dr. in Romulus.

Parents must bring a recent photo to the session. All calls should be directed to 1-312-527-4831. Interested parties are urged not to call the hotel.

The winners each were awarded a free holiday turkey.

Those competing included Joshua and Joseph Brown, Ernest Tolbert, Ronald Buckley, Dean Gee, Demetrius Rakomase, Brandon Williams, Theresa Genaw, Bret Fowler, Nelson Collier, Tony Penn, Jason Tackle, Chuckie Waitanowski, Christina Waj, Charles Hall, Sarah Zeimer, Crystal Mincovsky, Robert Graham, Melvin Stewart, Ron Wolff, Nasaha Tao, Brian Gillian, Javon Brown, John Williams, Jeremy Graham, Lettie Taylor, Duwayne Sandbin, Landry Hooks, Travis Hooks, Tracy Scheaf, Ronald Buckley, Ernest Tolbert and Roy Williams Sr.

Court administrator picked for 34th District

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Half of the 34th District Court administrator puzzle was completed Monday, as Chief Judge William J. Szlinis announced Michael W. Ramsey would fill the post left vacant by the resignation of Nancy L. Schuette.

Schuette resigned months ago, following a six month audit of the 34th District Court's financial history by a Michigan Supreme Court financial team and criminal investigation by the Michigan State Police.

Both Schuette and her Deputy Administrator Tammy Riopelle were on paid leave during the half-year probe.

But, area residents, the District Control Unit of the 34th District Court and the Associated Newspapers feel the other half of the equation remains unanswered until the official public release of the findings of the audit and investigation teams.

After the November meeting of the district court group, Huron Township Supervisor Christine Gamber admitted the group was "frustrated" over the lack of disclosure on the audit and criminal investigation report.

"In fact the committee is now questioning what its own role actually is suppose to be," she said.

Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally, who missed the November meeting, said she still feels it would be prudent for the control unit to appeal to the U.S. District Attorney General's office in Detroit in the continuing effort to obtain the audit and criminal investigation reports.

State Attorney General officials continue to claim that the case is not closed yet, hence the information cannot be released to the public.

Ramsey, currently the court administrator of the 55th District Court in Ingham County, is slated to begin his Romulus job on Jan. 10, 1994.

With 20 years of experience to his credit, Szlinis said, Ramsey has served in a number of positions at the 54-A District Court in Lansing. He also has served as deputy court administrator at the 68th District Court in Flint and served as consultant for the State Court Administrative Office.

Ramsey is a graduate fellow of the Institute for Court Management of the National Center for State Courts.

While Schuette was allowed to resign her court administrator post, Riopelle found her position was abolished.

Riopelle held a press conference in Southgate recently and revealed she was seeking the administrator post herself.

Carol Bowman, head of the court probation department, has served as acting administrator since March.

Shine said he felt Myler was honest, polite, and well-mannered while working at the Free Press, but admitted he did not know Myler outside the office.

If both youths are sentenced as adults they face up to life in prison on the second-degree murder charges.

When contacted last week, Lovette said he felt "justice was served" with the second degree verdicts. Lovette said he felt Cahalan has an "analytical mind" and "tried to be fair to all sides in the case."

A third defendant, Alan Bradley, 17, also of Detroit, pleaded guilty to being an accessory after the fact in a plea bargain. In exchange, he served as a witness for the state.

The murder of the Romulus teen also has sparked the creation of a citizens group geared to improving the social, educational and employment conditions of youth in Romulus.

Ohio residents split $10 million of the environmental settlement, while lawyers representing the group took the remaining $5 million.

Vince Schager, EDS operations manager, praised Lilly for the Vickery well informational video, but said much of the information had little to compare with the planned EDS project.

EDS plans only two injection wells not six as they have in Ohio, he said. Local plans call for much less above ground storage.

EDS also plans no lagoons on site there, Schager stressed, and thus there is no need for landfills.

John Brimble of the Captain Nemo fast food restaurant in Romulus asked "I have only one question, 'what does Capt. Nemo's have to gain by this well?'"

Another speaker Norbert Akins offered a longer statement endorsing the liquid injection well complaining only a "small number of residents" oppose the $6.1 million well project, which he claims would bring in $500,000 a year into city revenues for 30 years totaling $15 million.

Akins also questioned whether the expensive city lawsuit is worth the money, saying $100,000 has already been set for the legal battle and he estimates another $500,000 will be needed before a final court decision is reached.

New well site plan promised

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

A new site plan for the $6.1 million deep injection well project in Romulus is currently being planned by Environmental Disposal Services, (EDS) Operations Manager Vincent Schager revealed Tuesday.

"We feel this site plan will allow residents a clear understanding of the project and the environmental safeguards that are included," Schager said.

"The exaggerated claims of negative impacts to human health and property values can only be answered through a thorough understanding of our project and what it represents," he added.

EDS fully agrees with comments made Monday night regarding the need for proper handling and disposal of hazardous and liquid industrial wastes, he said.

Numerous contaminated sites are present in Romulus right now, including the dump site near Wick Elementary School as a result of past inadequate waste handling procedures, Schager continued.

EDS believes it is these sites which pose a serious threat to human health and the environment and should be the focus of citizens attention, he said.

"The unsupported claims of adverse health affects attributed to the EDS project are both unfounded and a needless distraction to a true understanding of environmental impacts on human health," he said.

Schager also promised that EDS would have all the funds in place necessary to properly close the facility prior to the start of well disposal operations next year.

"Hazardous waste operations will further be insured by a $5 million environmental impairment liability policy to cover any sudden and accidental events," he stressed.

Comparisons with the environmental well in Vickery, Ohio are not valid, he said, since the EDS well is regulated by standards that were not in existence at the time of the construction of the Vickery operations over 20 years ago.

Schager said he challenges anyone to provide documentary evidence that any well built with Environmental Protection Agency regulations in place today has ever contaminated an underground source of drinking water.

formation and incorrect statements that permeate this debate. It is also distressing that emotional responses based on false concepts are influencing public opinion," Harrison stated.

The professor then stressed, "To my knowledge EDS and their personnel bring many years of responsible and innovative experience to Michigan."

He also wrote that tests have shown that, "Southern Michigan has excellent geological formations to receive and contain liquid wastes."

Harrison said the risk of earthquakes here is extremely low and claims that fluid injection into the Romulus well might trigger an earthquake is "not realistic."

Harrison extended an offer to McAnally and the citizens of Romulus "any additional information" requested on the disposal well issue. A complete version of his letter can be found on page A-7 today.

cial since January 1989.

Martin began his top city recreational role in 1990 after working for years with the State of Michigan Department of Mental Health.

Martin said he informed McAnally last Monday of his plans to retire next month. That was the day set up by the Romulus City Charter for McAnally (and all sitting mayors, past and future) to inform her appointed department heads as to their employment status for another two years.

Martin said, "There comes a time in everyone's life when they have to make a decision on retirement."

Asked what he thought the major accomplishments of the recreation department were during his tenure, Martin listed the creation of Romulus Historic Park; a tot lot play area on Beverly Road; the expansion of the city Meals on Wheels program for senior citizens and the purchase of passenger vehicles to transport children and senior citizens to recreational or entertainment events.

Other upgrades also are being planned for the future, he said. They include the purchase of new playground equipment for Cordell Park; a new transportation van for youth and senior citizens; a possible new city park on eight acres of property expected to be donated to the city by the Romulus Salvation Army and the expected new black topping of the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) bike way in Romulus.

The bike way plan is currently being negotiated between MDOT and the city of Romulus.

The state apparently is willing to repave the 8-10 foot wide bike path if the city will assume the maintenance responsibilities. At least one city, Monroe, has rejected the offer. Romulus is still studying the offer since it is heavily used by Romulus bikers, joggers and walkers, Martin said.

Martin said he is proud that he has been able to both serve McAnally and residents of the city during his tenure as recreation and parks director.

Upon retirement, Martin said he hopes to increase his efforts with The First Baptist Church and to continue working on the Mayor's Drug Task Force.

ROMULUS COMMUNITY SCHOOLS NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING TO INSTITUTE A CHANGE IN THE SUMMER PROPERTY TAX LEVY AND A PUBLIC MEETING FOR ADOPTION OF A RESOLUTION OF SUMMER TAXES

PUBLIC ACT 333 OF 1982 REQUIRES SCHOOL DISTRICTS TO HOLD PUBLIC HEARINGS ON CHANGES IN SUMMER TAX COLLECTIONS. THIS HEARING WILL BE HELD:

Tuesday, December 21, 1993
Board of Education Office
36540 Grant Road
Romulus, Michigan 48174
7:00 P.M.

Current tax collection calendar

Summer 50% of school property taxes assessed
Winter 50% of school property taxes assessed

Proposed tax collection calendar

Summer 100% of school property taxes assessed
Winter No school property taxes assessed

Public Act 333 requires the Board of Education of a school district to adopt a resolution to impose a summer property tax levy of either one-half or all of school property taxes. For the past several years, the Romulus Board of Education has limited the summer tax levy to one-half of the assessed school property taxes.

Because of a substantial reduction in millage for local tax collections due to the change in funding for schools, and because of a need to borrow funds for cash flow (projected at 5,000,000 for 1994-95), the Romulus Board of Education is considering a change from the collection of one-half of the assessed school taxes in the summer to the collection of all school taxes in the summer. This action would offset the interest charges incurred by the district for borrowing, and interest losses incurred as a result of the changes in school funding.

The Board of Education will adopt a resolution concerning the summer tax levy change at a meeting which will be held Tuesday, December 21, 1993, in the Administration Building Board Room at 7:00 P.M.

Chief denies job offer

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Inkster Police Chief Terry Colwell on Thursday said that he "is flattered that my name has surfaced," but that there wasn't any truth to the rumor he is one of several candidates scheduled to be interviewed for the job of Romulus police chief.

"It is flattering that someone would mention my name in connection with the job over there," said Colwell, who has been in law enforcement for the past 24 1/2 years and a Vietnam War veteran. "But it just isn't true."

"The mayor (Beverly McAnally) is a wonderful person, and the job over there would be a challenging one. However, there absolutely is no basis for the rumor that I'm interested."

The police chief's position in Romulus was vacated last week when McAnally failed to reappoint Fred Dansby. Under the Romulus City Charter, the police chief is considered a department head and serves at the will of the mayor.

When asked why Dansby wasn't reappointed, the mayor informed The Romulus Roman, "I don't have to give one. It is within my power according to the City Charter."

A retired city of Westland Police Chief, Dansby was appointed in 1988 to serve as police chief by McAnally. He took control of the department in January of 1989 from Charles Wilmot, who also is a former Westland Police Chief.

Dansby was not available for comment. But according to sources within the department, the former police chief was "shocked" and "was not aware that he would not be re-appointed to the job."

The 46-year-old Colwell knows the area well. He was raised in Inkster and attended Cherry Hill High School, and launched his police career in the late 1960s, moving into the front lines as a patrolman to the detective bureau. He served as a sergeant and was promoted to lieutenant in the uniform division before made the deputy chief to former Inkster Police Chief James Buckley.

'Top Cop' is sought

Who is the "Top Cop" in western Wayne County?

Area youngsters are requested to help us honor police officers who have had an important impact on their lives - beyond the call of duty.

The nominees should have performed some special act or duty for children or youths which merits the designation of "Top Cop."

School-age youngsters and youths may submit the name of a police officer who has aided them in an emergency, provided support in a problem situation or brought information to them that helped them to make good decisions in their lives.

The man in blue could be a Drug Awareness Resistance Education (DARE) officer, a member of a mini-station staff, a patrolman on regular duty or an officer or police chief who has extended a helping hand to youngsters. The nominee could be an officer who has provided a rescue or emergency aid in the line of duty.

Nominations may be submitted only by school-age youngsters, and should be mailed to Top Cop, Associated Newspapers, 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne, Mich. 48184. Those submitting nominations should include their name, address, age and school.

Tax bills cause confusion

As property owners receive their tax bills this month, there is some confusion as to why taxes for schools are included in the bill in light of the new law exempting property from school millages.

Current tax bills are for the 1993 tax year. The taxes are due on or before Feb. 14, 1994, according to the Michigan Department of Treasury.

The property tax cut contained in the new law takes effect Jan. 1, 1994, and applies to the 1994 tax year. Summer and winter tax bill next year will reflect the lower property tax.

Look into the future

Local clinic provides vision care for patients of all ages

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Deputy News Editor

Looking into the future of eye technology, wearers of contact lenses and glasses are in for more than just a focus on affordable care.

Today, businesses such as The Vision Center are offering flexible glasses with frames that can bend 180 degrees, disposable contact lenses of rainbow colors and exam equipment that can provide a lengthy readout of every facet of the eye, according to Dr. Thomas Cassidy and Dr. Brian Pierce, owners of The Vision Center in Canton Township, 43050 Ford Road.

"We have about 700 frames here including designer name brands at affordable costs," said Pierce. "We also offer visual therapy or what is called vision exercises for children. And, we have free vision examinations for children and infants."

The exams for children are available for those 6 months old to 2 to 3 years old, according to Cassidy.

"Basically the examination involves looking at their gross motor skills to see if they can follow some targets with their eyes," Pierce said. "We also look inside the eye to make sure it's healthy."

The Vision Center also has patterned charts to test the eye movement of children.

"Each card has different stripes or patterns," Pierce said. "Children like to look at colors or patterns. As we flip to the different charts, if they can't see the pattern or colors that are there, then there may be a problem."

One method to correct the vision problem is to have the child wear glasses, according to Pierce.

"You can shine a light in their eye and get an idea of their prescription," Pierce said. "If there is a big difference between the two eyes or a real high prescription is necessary, then the infant may need glasses. But, it's pretty rare for an infant to wear them."

Cassidy said if an infant is a little near-sighted or a little far-sighted, it's really nothing to be alarmed about.

"What we try to look at is the big difference, if there is one, between the two eyes," Cassidy said.

What's new for glasses? A featherweight bendable metal frame which can even house a bifocal prescription.

"We also have the same-day disposable contact lenses," Pierce said. "There are new designs in bifocal lenses as well."

A machine called the Auto Refractor Keratometer provides an in-depth description of both eyes.

"It automatically measures a patient's eye telling us what the prescription is and also tells us the size of the patient's eyes," Cassidy said. "Our technicians carry out these tests on the patients."

"It's a good documentation, especially for children because you can follow how their eyes change over the years."

Cassidy said The Vision Center also has a more advanced machine to implement glaucoma tests.

"It has less of a harsh puff for the eye," Cassidy said. "It takes about a half hour for an eye examination. Sometimes the exam may take an hour. We are very thorough here."

Infant eye screening is free of charge at The Vision Center in Canton Township. A $20-off special is now in effect for glasses and contacts.

"We rely more on personal service here and the quality of care," Pierce said. "We never rush a patient. We try to provide the most in-depth examination."

After the examination is completed, the patient can then select their glass frames or contact lenses.

Cassidy and Pierce are both residents of Canton Township. Cassidy received his degree from Ferris State University, College of Optometry in 1984. Pierce graduated with honors from Ferris State University in 1992.

The Vision Center is open 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday and Friday, 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday. To make an appointment call 981-2700.

Inside a beautifully decorated store on Michigan and Inkster roads are exquisite, designer-style, one-of-a-kind dresses - just the styles to make an impression at a pre-Christmas cocktail party or a New Year's Eve reception.

The array of holiday dresses and career clothing at the Fashion Gallery in Inkster includes two-piece and three-piece ensembles plus pant outfits and accessories - all with surprisingly low price tags. "We are celebrating our grand opening this month," said owner Yung Endyk, who opened the store at 27456 Michigan after being in another location.

"We have sizes for large women as well as smaller sizes," she said. "Many women are very happy to find our selection of larger-sized clothing because it is difficult for them to find designer clothing in their sizes."

The clothes at Fashion Gallery are fashions that will remain in style for many seasons. Fashions that Yung Endyk describes as "European style and French style."

She brings the current fashions from across the country to Inkster before they are introduced here by other shops.

"I like to bring new things for my customers, so that they'll be in step with the fashions in other areas," she said.

Saleswoman Darlene Manning noted, "We continually get new stock, so you're sure of finding what you want. We also do alterations for customers."

Purses and jewelry are available at reasonable prices, she added.

"It is expensive to buy clothes, especially if they are only in style for one season, but my fashions will last for a long time," the store owner said. "The dresses and outfits at the Fashion Gallery won't go out of style for many seasons. We have good prices, nice service and quality clothing. I like clothes, and that's why I enjoy bringing fashions to Inkster."

Yung Endyk displays one of the many holiday dresses available at her new shop in Inkster.

WESTERN MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY

December 13, 1993

Honorable Beverly McAnally
Mayor, City of Romulus
11111 Wayne Road
Romulus, Michigan 48174

Dear Mayor McAnally,

I feel compelled to write to you regarding Environmental Disposal Systems Well 1-20, the new deep injection well for hazardous wastewater disposal sited in Romulus.

I have been a Michigan resident for over 20 years and feel very strongly that protection of our quality environment in Michigan should be a priority. Rational thought and planning, coupled with innovative technology and resource utilization can be our best ally in the pursuit of environmental protection.

My position as Professor of Geology and Director of the Michigan Basin Core Research Laboratory gives me a broad perspective and extensive database to analyze and interpret Michigan's geology and resources. As director of the Core Laboratory, I have participated in and supervised numerous studies of Michigan geology, including a statewide assessment of the "Basal Sandstone" Mt. Simon Formation as a potential unit for wastewater injection and confinement. This is the rock strata involved in the well in Romulus. This assessment was part of a four-state north central region study commissioned by the Underground Injection Practices Council and funded by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. The report of this study, published in 1989, is entitled, "Hydrogeologic and Hydrochemical Assessment of the Basal Sandstone and Overlying Paleozoic Age Units for Wastewater Injection and Confinement in the North Central Region." In the preface of this document, the Underground Injection Practices Council states that,

The practice of deep well disposal of liquid waste has been, is currently, and will likely remain, an important part of the overall solution to proper disposal of hazardous and non-hazardous wastes. In that light, this report should serve as a valuable tool for persons concerned with the placement and use of deep well disposal systems.

This report is available from the Groundwater Protection Council in Oklahoma. Seventy-seven wells were used in this study, including six from Wayne County. I have also examined all the geologic data from the Romulus well and find it to be consistent with our previous study.

I have followed the community and media debate about this facility since I attended a public information session at Romulus High School in October. I must say that I am shocked by the misinformation and incorrect statements that permeate this debate. Several published media articles have quoted scientists, like Dr. Arnold Bouma of Louisiana State University and Dr. Donald Stierman of the University of Toledo, with seemingly valid comments that use innuendo and generalization to cast doubt on the safety of a well like the Romulus project. If you examine the credentials of these reputable scientists you will find that they do not have any experience in Michigan geology or the specifics of underground injection wells in the region. I would consider their comments irrelevant to the issues of Michigan. It is also distressing that emotional responses based on false concepts are influencing public opinion. Because of the recent public concern for the safety of this well and your responsibility as a civic leader, I am sure that you want to be well informed on the scientific issues about this disposal well.

Several important questions need to be asked by anyone purporting to make an informed judgment about the safety of underground injection technology, in general, and the Romulus well, in particular.

1. Does the operating company have a corporate history of reliable and responsible operation of similar facilities? Do they have the technical expertise necessary to do the job properly? This can be easily determined from records kept by state and federal permitting agencies. New permits are not issued to irresponsible companies. To my knowledge, Environmental Disposal Systems and their personnel bring many years of responsible and innovative experience in Michigan and other areas to the Romulus project.

2. Are the geologic conditions proper for the type of installation being developed? Can the waste be effectively confined to the injection layer? Is the region prone to earthquakes or other natural disasters that might put the injection well at risk? The Underground Injection Practices Council report cited above carefully addressed these questions. I have enclosed a copy of the conclusions of this report for your information. It indicates that southern Michigan has excellent geologic formations to receive and contain liquid wastes. The injection formation is thousands of feet below the thin, near-surface, drinking water aquifer. The risk of earthquakes has been examined and is extremely low to non-existent in southern Michigan. The suggestion by Professor Stierman (University of Toledo) that fluid injection into the Romulus well might trigger local earthquakes like those in Rangely, Colorado is not realistic. The geology in Colorado is vastly different than in Michigan. The Rangely area contains regionally stressed, highly fractured granite that had a long earthquake history prior to wastewater injection. Michigan's rocks are not under those types of stresses and contain almost no fractures. Breaking strength tests have been performed on various Michigan strata and suggest that forces much higher than the proposed injection pressures would be necessary to rupture the rocks.

It is my fervent hope that rational and measured thought go into every decision that we make. This can only be achieved by education and a conscious effort to avoid emotional responses that cloud our judgment. It is also important that hidden agendas not be promulgated in the guise of public good. I teach my students to acquire all the relevant facts, ignore the irrelevant ones and form a logical opinion. I would be happy to provide you with any additional information so that you and the citizens of Romulus can make the best decision about the deep disposal well. I hope that you do not let a small vocal, uninformed minority dictate decisions that may not represent the best interests of the entire community. Thank you for your time in reading this letter.

Sincerely,

William B. Harrison, III

Sweeping success

Teachers' and custodial salaries are nearly equal in area districts

The value of a dollar is a lesson learned by both those who graduate from college and those who called it quits after high school.

Based on numbers supplied by many local school districts, starting custodians, with a high school diploma, are worth almost as much as starting teachers who are required to have a four-year college degree and certification. In some cases the difference in wages is less than $1 per hour.

Starting teachers in Plymouth-Canton school district begin at $28,925 with a bachelor's degree and no teaching experience in the district according to Errol Goldman, assistant superintendent for employee relations, while a first-year teacher with a master's degree begins at $31,821.

Teachers then receive pay raises based on negotiations between the Plymouth-Canton school board and the Plymouth-Canton Education Association. As they remain in the district each year, teachers see an increase in pay according to their years of service and education.

"The teachers move up steps," said Goldman "based on the number of years they stay in the district. First year teachers with a BA (bachelor of arts degree) returning next year will move up to step two at $32,376."

Teachers returning to the Plymouth-Canton school district as a second year educator with a master's degree also move up to step two with a $35,755 salary.

Statistics indicate 1992-1993 starting custodians earned $11.20 per hour for the first three months. After 90 days, the wage increased to $12.86 per hour, giving a beginning custodian a $23,894 salary.

Like the teachers, custodians move up a step each year they serve the school district, but negotiations between the Plymouth-Canton school board and custodial union use a flat rate increase based solely on years of service. Education does not play a role, even if the person holds a degree.

"Of course we want the most qualified person we can get," said Goldman, "but the candidate doesn't need prior experience, only a high school diploma."

Teachers move up the steps over a nine-year period until they reach their maximum monetary amount. Veteran teachers maintaining a four-year degree peaked at $48,063 this year, while teachers with a masters degree peaked at $56,409 and teachers with a masters degree and 30 years service made $57,409.

Although Wayne-Westland teachers must receive a secondary education in college, obtaining a bachelor's or master's degree and a teacher's certification, teachers starting salaries do not differ greatly from the starting pay rate of district custodians, according to figures obtained from Wayne-Westland Superintendent of Employee Services Bill Taylor.

Starting salaries for teachers with bachelor's degrees is $27,620 while starting salaries for school custodians is $25,916.

If directly hired from outside the district union, which rarely happens according to Taylor, head custodians can start at $27,788, bypassing the starting salary of a teacher with a bachelor's degree. However, Taylor added, teachers with prior work experience have negotiable starting salaries and teachers with master's degrees start at $30,515. More than 80 percent of Wayne-Westland teachers have a master's degrees, Taylor added.

While custodians work 40 hours a week, district teachers work "40 hours plus" per week, Taylor said. Custodians also receive time and a half for overtime hours worked, unlike teachers.

Teachers wages eventually outweigh custodial salaries. Taylor stressed that rate of pay for custodians differs from teachers because custodians receive raises over a four-year period, teachers with bachelor's degrees receive raises over a 10-year period and teachers with master's degrees receive raises over an 11-year period, Taylor said.

While custodians receive a maximum pay of $36,470, teachers with a bachelor's degree receive up to $47,025 after 10 years and teachers with master's degrees receive raises for about 11 years totaling a maximum of $55,395. Teacher salary increases total 5 to 7 percent per year depending on each teacher's experience.

"It's like comparing apples to oranges. Teachers receive pay raises up to 11 years and custodians get to the top after four years," Taylor said.

"Custodians have not had a pay raise since the 1991/92 school year. The ASCME union has been without a contract for almost two years," Taylor added.

Martial arts expert shares techniques with local students

By MARGO DEWEY
Deputy News Editor

More than 70 black-belt students at Kicks Tae Kwon Do in Wayne to received a day of instruction with one of the highest-ranking martial artists in the world last week.

Grand Master Hae Man Park visited Kicks owners Ron and Chris Rose Dec. 4 from Seoul, Korea. Park is a ninth-degree black belt, according to Ron Rose.

"He was here for all of my black-belt students throughout the day," Rose said. "He also gave some instructions to the youngster students. "They were all definitely excited about this opportunity to have someone of Hae Man Park's caliber. We received nothing but positive comments."

He is an excellent instructor.”
- Ron Rose

Park travels around the world teaching martial arts. He is considered the forms expert for the World Tae Kwon Do Federation, according to Rose.

"He gave a few instructions on improving the students 'Poomse', patterns of defense movement," Rose said. "Poomse is part of the Kicks students' year-round curriculum. We train them extensively with the movements."

Rose said Park unites people around the world with the proper movements and execution of Poomse. Rose was first introduced to the grand master by his instructor.

"I met him in Florida," Rose said. "I have trained with him around the country. His main emphasis is with practicing and understanding the techniques and application of the martial arts."

Rose said Park has invited him to travel with him to Spain next June where he will be conducting another martial arts seminar.

"He is an excellent instructor, one of the best in the world," Rose said. "He travels to a different city every day to teach students. He is very dedicated."

This was Park's second visit to Kicks Tae Kwon Do. The only other Tae Kwon Do studio he visited in Michigan was in Jackson.

Grand Master Hae Man Park (left) travels to a different city every day in order to bring about unity with the techniques of martial arts, according to Kicks Tae Kwon Do owner Ron Rose. Park has asked Rose's son Paul (bottom) to compete in an international Tae Kwon Do competition in England next April. Rockets blast off into title orbit

ANP Staff Writer

With 6-5 senior forward Tony Goins at the controls, the Westland John Glenn High School Rockets blasted into orbit Friday night. They began their long trek for a basketball title with an impressive win over host, Ypsilanti.

Although one game doesn't a season make, the Rockets 80-65 victory over a traditionally powerful Ypsilanti on the home court of the Braves undeniably shows that sophomore Glenn coach Mike Schuette has assembled a team that will compete for the Western Lakes Conference.

Glenn, with the likes of Goins, 6-11 junior center Guy Rucker, and sharpshooting Savon Hubbard, is expected to go beyond the conference realm and play a dominant role in the playoffs.

Goins pumped in 11 of his game-high 29 points in the first period to stake the Rockets to a 27-13 lead that coach Bob Rowley and his Braves never really challenged. Rowley was also very much impressed with the 1993 Rockets.

"They (Glenn) are an excellent team. We're a little short on manpower - and it showed Friday night," Rowley added.

Glenn built up a 15-point cushion (45-30) at halftime, as Rucker and Hubbard joined the shooting range. In fact, if it had not been for Ypsilanti senior guard Jason Lamar's outstanding play, the Braves could have been put away much earlier.

Lamar sank 28 points for the evening, high score for his team.

Ypsi attempted to cool the Rockets after the initial half with a variety of zones in the third quarter, but Hubbard quickly displayed that Glenn also has a capable three-point shooter. Among his 15- points, Hubbard counted four treys.

Seated upon a 15-point cushion most of the evening, Schuette could afford to use his bench indiscriminately.

The biggest Glenn lead, 55-32, dwindled when the Braves managed to score nine straight points, closing the gap, 59-43. But Rucker came back with a tap-in to break the spell and the Rockets finished up their work with little sweat.

The Rockets had balanced scoring in their debut thanks to Goins (29), Rucker (16) and Hubbard (15). Al Jones, a sophomore, added 10 for the Rockets who capitalized on 20 of 29 free throws as compared to the Braves four of 17.

Glenn also dominated the boards, 39-31. Goins and Washington each had eight, and Rucker collected six.

Before they go on their holiday break, the Westlanders have a date to play at Warren Mott Thursday night.

Wayne breaks Canton press

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Plymouth-Canton brought out the long-range artillery in hopes of shooting down a high-flying Wayne Memorial High School basketball team, and coach Dave VanWagoner's strategy almost worked.

For most of three quarters, the Chiefs had Wayne on the ropes, but Wayne managed to come off and win the season opener, 82-74.

"We stood toe-to-toe most of the way," said VanWagoner, "however, they figured out how to break our press. That was definitely a factor in this game."

Wayne coach Chuck Henry said that it was a case where "Canton relied on the three (three-pointers) and we on the layup. And the layup won."

The Wayne transition game got into fast gear midway in the third quarter. After trailing Canton 22-14 and 41-37 after the first two periods, the Zebras outscored their visitors 24-14, with the help of an 18-5 run, to take the lead. In that run, Gerald Adams scored nine of his team-high 24 points.

But Canton, cranked up Matt Paupore's three-pointers, came back and made it close, however the Chiefs never again saw the lead.

Wayne failed to stop Paupore who scored a game-high 31 points and made six three-pointers. Ryan Ostach and Ted Docks split 22 points for the Chiefs who made 18 of 27 at the free-throw line.

Canton bounced back at the expense of Monroe to win its first of the season, 71-67, as Paupore pumped in 25 points - six of those were treys. In fact, the Chiefs carded eight treys in the second quarter and managed to come back from a 18-8 deficit to tie the game at 37

Second-best in Michigan

The 1993 Westland John Glenn High School Rockets proved that they are the best football team in the long high school history. Winning more games than any of their predecessors, coach Chuck Gordon's gridders posted a 11-2 record and reached the Class AA state championship game for the first time before losing the coveted state crown to Dearborn Fordson, 12-7. The Associated Newspapers will salute the Rockets and the top area players next week with their special edition of the All-Area Teams. An unexpected request to include players who live in the area but attend schools outside the ANP circulation area, delayed the final selection. ANP Special Photo

Rocks even record Salem recovers from slow start

You can't blame Plymouth-Salem cage coach Bob Brodie if he wonders aloud which of his teams will show up to play on any given night.

After Salem dropped an embarrassing 76-55 decision to Monroe in their season opener last Tuesday, the Rocks came back and dumped Southfield, 70-56, Friday.

Tomorrow Salem will travel to Ann Arbor Huron for its fourth consecutive road game and the veteran coach is wondering which of his teams will be on the court.

"I don't know whether it was first-game jitters at Monroe or what," Brodie said, "but when you shoot 22 percent and make 25 turnovers, you know something is wrong."

"Then you come back in your next game and beat Southfield by almost the identical score you lost to Monroe by, you just don't know what to think. Are we that good or are we that bad?"

If there was any consistency in the first two Salem games it was provided by 6-6 senior James Head, who has turned in two solid performances at both ends of the court.

Head tossed in six of his 12 points in the first period against Southfield to lift the Rocks to a 20-8 lead that Salem managed to protect, despite the Blue Jays' Charles Cartwright and Paul Hubbard. Both Jays finished in double figures.

Salem parlayed its 12-point, first-quarter lead into a 39-27 advantage at halftime, then went on to outscore their hosts 16-13 in the third period but losing the final period duel, 16-15.

Lamb, a 6-2 senior forward, contributed 12 points and Sanjeev Seth, a 5-10 senior guard, added 10 for the Rocks who shot a little more than .500 percent from the floor (20 of 46) while making 18 of 22 at the free-throw line.

Cartwright wound up with individual scoring honors with 16. Hubbard counted 14 points for the Jays.

Salem fell behind early against Monroe and struggled to catch up. The Trojans took an early 15-7 lead and turned it to a 33-21 ball game at halftime before outscoring their visitors 17-7 in the third period.

Although the Rocks exploded to a 26-point fourth-period, they never could put a dent into Southfield's 10-point cushion.

Salem had two players in double figures: Head had 13 points, and Adam Hammons chipped in with 10. The Jays received a game-high 15 points from Don Marcero.

Brodie believes that the 1993-94 Western Lakes Conference title race is "wide open" this year.

"There is a balance of power in the league," the veteran Salem coach said. "Northville and John Glenn look to be the frontrunners, but watch out for Canton, too. They can be tough."

However, most conference coaches believe that Salem will have a lot to say who will wear the 1993-94 crown.

Inkster Vikings next 2 games will be crucial

It isn't going to get any easier for first-year Inkster High School basketball coach Monte Dennard and his Vikings.

Inkster edged a strong Detroit Mumford, 59-56, in its 1993-94 season opener last Tuesday, then eked out a cliffhanging, 78-76, win over perennial Class B state power, Flint Beecher on the Beecher home court Friday night to make it two-in-a-row.

Now, Dennard faces East Catholic (Tuesday) and Oak Park (Friday) for his next tests. And both games are crucial ones for the Vikings.

"We need to continue to build momentum," says Dennard, who replaced Spencer Grant as head coach. "Our non-league and our conference schedules are tough."

And I like it that way." A familiar figure in these parts, Dennard prepped at Robichaud High School where he earned all-conference and All-Area honors before he went on to star at the University of Wisconsin-Superior. Dennard also coached at Robichaud High during the late 1980s.

In the shoot-out against Mumford, 6-6 junior Al White teamed with James Outlaw, a 6-4 senior, and Maurice Ballard to give the Vikings a balanced scoring attack that eventually crippled the taller Detroit quintet.

White scored 27 points and grabbed 15 rebounds to lead the winners, who worked their way to a 17-13 first-period lead but trailed at intermission 33-31 as 6-4 Mumford guard Dennis Whaley rode the Mustangs to a 20-14 second period.

Both teams put 12 points on the scoreboard in the third frame, setting up a thrilling finale. White came back with nine points and Outlaw sank four as the Vikings took control in the final period.

Outlaw contributed 16 points and nabbed 12 rebounds while Ballard chipped in 10 points to go along with White's team high 27 points. The Vikings could have made it easier on themselves with a little more accuracy at the free throw line where they managed to capitalize on only 14 of 31 charities.

At Flint Beecher, Ballard's two free throws with seven seconds left in the game broke a 76-all tie and gave the Vikings their second straight win.

Inkster jumped off to a 22-14 lead against the cold-shooting hosts and went on to build on its lead, 43-28.

But Beecher came back in the third period on the strength of a balanced attack and closed the gap, 62-52, before heading into the final period. Flint managed to catch up and go ahead by four before a sideline jump shot by Greg Prewitt and a White steal that ended in a dunk tied the game at 76.

After a Flint turnover, Ballard was fouled driving to the basket. His free throws settled the issue.

"It was a great victory for us," said Dennard. "It's a confidence builder."

Outlaw led the Vikings with 22 points and 10 rebounds. Ballard finished with 16 points, while White tossed in 12 points and came off the court with 15 rebounds. Inkster also got 11 points from Imbraim Myles, who accounted for 11 points.

Shooting a torrid 65 percent (28 of 43) from the field, the Vikings, however, continued to show ineptness at the foul line where they canned 22 of 40.

"We can't afford to miss on these opportunities. One of these nights that (free-throw shooting) is going to come back and haunt us."

Inkster will open the 1993 Suburban Athletic Conference (SAC) campaign Friday night before the home crowd. They will host Oak Park, a team with excellent size and experience that SAC coaches believe will be the next conference champ. The Redskins also will carry a 2-0 record into the week.

Inkster athlete among the elite

Charnell Lynn's comet continues to shine across the state and nation.

The young Inkster High track star, who captured four gold medals in leading the Vikings to the Class B state title last May, was recently listed among the top athletes in Michigan.

She walks and runs among a group of elite Michigan athletes that included Chris Webber, former Mr. Basketball at Birmingham Country Day who starred at University of Michigan; Joe Dumars, of Detroit Pistons fame, and Tony Phillips, Detroit Tiger infielder-outfielder, who earned the Detroit Tigers' Player of the Year accolades for 1993.

"Like many other people, Charnell is blessed with a lot of athletic ability," said Keith Bailey, one of her coaches. "The difference with Lynn is that she applies herself and casts aside all the negatives."

"You won't find a harder working athlete."

She also won the 100 and 200-meter national Junior Olympics titles in the 15-16 age group last summer.

Hixon picks up another honor

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

In the wake of earning a berth on the all-Mid-American Conference team, former Wayne Memorial High School grid star Pierre Hixon also was awarded national recognition by the United Press International (UPI).

The senior cornerback from Inkster received an honorable mention on the 1993 UPI football team last week.

An outstanding all-around athlete, Hixon made 70 tackles, including four for minus yards. He also topped the team in pass deflections with 10 and made five interceptions.

Hixon also finished with 10 career interceptions, a feat that gave him a share of ninth place on the all-time school list in that statistic.

Western University had an outstanding season as the Broncos posted a 7-3-1 overall record and finished second in the Mid-American Conference. In the Mid-American, the Broncos had a 6-1-1 mark.

Vikings claim 4 medals at Allen Park invitational

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

High school grapplers got down to business and the mats over the weekend, and the Vikings from Inkster traveled to the Allen Park Invitational only to discover that the tournament was a double dual meet.

"We planned to compete in an invitational so we took kids who we thought could place," said Inkster coach Sam Ellis. "However, once we got there they told us that because only six teams were competing, they were turning into a double dual."

Although Ellis said he was disappointed, he wasn't disappointed in his wrestlers' performances. Four of the five Inkster grapplers who competed came away with medals, including one gold. The gold went to 112-pounder Anthony Melchor, who won all three of his matches. The Vikings finished second with Kevin Jackson, a heavyweight who lost in the finals.

Thuron Edwards (171) and Royal Gaines (189), who posted identical 3-2 records, came away with bronze medals.

Teammate Jauquin Gould, a 119-pounder, won two of his four matches and finished fourth.

Riverview, which won all five of its matches, finished with the championship trophy. Wyandotte was second, followed by Fordson, Allen Park, Clarenceville and Inkster.

Inkster will host Dearborn Heights Crestwood and Southgate Aquinas on Thursday in a double dual which begins at 6 p.m.

Ellis says that his 1993-94 squad is academically one of the tops.

"We have athletes, such as the Wiggins twins (Jason and Jay) who have a 3.5 grade point average. Thuron (Thuron Edwards) boasts a 4.0. When you have such scholar-athletes on your squad, it makes it easier for the coach."

all at the halfway mark.

Canton went on to outscore their rivals 18-17 and 16-13 in the final two periods.

Canton put five players in double figures. Along with Paupore's 25, Ron Hunter added 11 while Docks, Tadarus Rachel and Ryan Ostach each had 10 points.

Monroe received a superb performance from D.C. Dupras, who finished with 30, the game high.

"We feel we beat a good Monroe team," said Van-Wagoner, who faces two state-ranked teams in the coming week.

Canton played Adrian Tuesday night and will travel to Ann Arbor Pioneer Thursday night.

In the meantime, Lorenzo Guess fired in 10 of his 12 points in the first period to lift Wayne to an 18-6 lead as the Zebras coasted to their second win, 67-54, over Livonia Churchill.

Henry, experimenting with his bench, said he is looking for people to give his starters some relief.

"And I didn't see it on Friday. Those (starters) will have to become iron men this year. Our bench so far has been disappointing."

In front by as much as 19 points (37-18), Wayne saw its lead dwindle in the third period when Churchill charged back and outscored the Zebras, 19-9, to make it a nine-point ball game (46-37).

Courtney Howard led the winners and the field with 17 points and Hardison finished with 15. Guess accounted for 12 and Jason Overton finished with 10.

Wayne had another non-conference tuneup Tuesday at Livonia Franklin before the Zebras launch their inaugural Mega Conference (Red Division) season. On Thursday, they will meet Dearborn. It's a crossover game.

Henry believes that former Wolverine "A" Conference rivals, Belleville and Fordson will again be powers to reckon with in the new alignment.

"The name of the conference may have changed, but Belleville, Fordson and Monroe are the teams to beat," Henry said.

Oh, yes, Henry may have forgotten to mention that the Zebras always have something to say about who will claim the title, but the other coaches in the league figure that Wayne could win it all again this year.

Westland comedian hammers at 2 separate careers

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

A Westland comedian, who also does home improvements, has dual careers that seem to parallel those of television comic Tim Allen.

And, comparisons don't end there. Westland resident Jim McLean not only performed the opening act for Allen's recent appearance at the Fisher Theatre, he also built a deck for the television star's Beverly Hills (Michigan) home.

"While we were building the deck, Allen almost knocked down a leveling tripod, which costs about $600," McLean said, relating the incident in stand-up comedy style. "Just after I told him to watch it, he bumped it, and it started to fall. I jumped over a wheelbarrow - just like in a sitcom - and caught it before it fell."

The carpenter-comedian believes his careers puts him in good stead with several other entertainers in addition to Allen.

"Harrison Ford worked as a carpenter before he starred in Raiders of the Lost Ark, and Jeff Daniels' family is in the lumber business in Chelsea," McLean said.

If McLean could have three wishes, they would be to perform on Saturday Night Live, write screen plays and perform at the Fox Theatre.

The Westland comedian's comedy heroes are Charlie Chaplin and the Marx brothers from vaudeville days and Bob Hope, George Burns and Gracie Allen from radio. Sid Caesar, Jackie Gleason and Ernie Kovacs are his favorites from the early days of television.

"Of course, I grew up with Saturday Night Live and Monty Python," McLean said.

He calls his form of comedy "observational humor."

"I do some political and social commentary. I try to provoke thought without preaching," McLean said. "When audiences leave the club, I'd like them to feel that my comedy was well thought out."

McLean doesn't let the current wave of hyper-sensitivity curb his humor.

"I don't try to be politically correct, but, on the other hand, I don't use cheap shots against groups," McLean said.

McLean attended schools in the Livonia School District, where his comic talents blossomed.

"I was one of those kids that would imitate the teacher when he left the room. All the kids would be laughing when he got back, but he wouldn't know why," McLean said. "I did this through high school, but then the result was many serious discussions with the teachers after class."

The Westland man numbers himself among the John Glenn High School Rockets fan, and played football with the Westland Youth Athletic Association.

"Westland was a great place to grow up in. I lived near Hines Park, and I had kind of a Mark Twain-Huckleberry Finn childhood catching frogs and hiking in the woods," McLean said. "Most kids who live in urban areas don't have that opportunity."

McLean comes from a family of natural comedians.

"My dad's whole family are light-hearted and naturally funny. Whenever we get together with my aunts and uncles everyone's got something funny to relate. It's not competitive. No one tries to one-up the others, because they are just natural comedians," McLean said.

After high school, McLean worked as an intern for radio station WABX.

"I decided that I didn't want to pursue a career in radio, because personalities change so quickly. One day you may be in Detroit, but if things don't work out, you're in Albuquerque tomorrow," McLean said. "I wanted to stay in the Detroit area. In fact, I still love the area and want to stay here. Comedians are having a resurgence in Detroit. With (Mike) Ilitch's Second City and the opening of a lot of clubs and theaters, I see Detroit becoming a Motown of Comedy."

After his short career in radio, McLean took a job with a carpentry firm as a "go-fer," and worked his way up to a journeyman carpenter and then to owning his own business.

"Sam Moraco and I own Muraca Building Co., which I'm very serious about. We did restoration work for the Weller Carriage House in Saline and built a gazebo at Madonna College," McLean said. "We also built a deck for Tim Allen," McLean said.

Along with performing in comedy clubs, making stage appearances and pursuing his carpentry work, McLean also is a comedy writer.

"I write from 6 to 7:30 a.m. Both of my writing partners have day jobs, and this is the only time we can get together," McLean said. "We've locally produced Live and Kicking."

Jim McLean

Two two episodes are completed, and we're working on two movie screen plays," he said.

"I was one of those kids that would imitate the teacher when he left the room. All the kids would be laughing when he got back, but he wouldn't know why. I did this through high school, but then the result was many serious discussions with the teachers after class."

INTERNATIONAL MUSICAL GROUP DRAWS LARGE CROWD, OFFERS ALTERNATIVE THINKING TOWARD CHRISTIANITY

Residents in western Wayne County were rocking to the beat of a familiar sound last Friday as the music of the Newsboys blasted through the walls of the Tri-City Christian Center located on Michigan Avenue in Canton Township.

Back by popular demand, the Newsboys mesmerized onlookers of all ages with their phenomenal acoustical setup and musical talent.

Although this group is now considered "hot" especially after being nominated for a Grammy for Gospel Contemporary Rock Album of the Year, Not Ashamed, and being number one on the Billboard charts Jan. 11, 1993 for the Contemporary Christian Album of the Year, The Future of the Genre, their claim to fame has had some setbacks.

When they first came to the U.S. from Australia, Peter Furler, drummer/producer/songwriter, said the group lived on a $1 a day for food. They didn't know how they were actually going to attain their claim to fame.

Furler said the group relied on their Christian faith to assist them with envisioning a path through the obstacles.

"We met as a group in 1985 when I actually met the original guitarist in 1985," Furler said. "We went to school together. We kind of started jamming together on old Beatles songs, actually whatever we could play at 15 years old."

Furler said he and his friend who is not a member of the present Newsboys group got expelled from their school in Australia. He said he continued his friendship even when his parents moved 2,000 miles away.

"My friend joined the Air Force and ended up getting based where I lived," Furler said. "After a few months, he didn't like the Air Force so he left that. We started this band. A few months after that we met Sean Taylor who is the original bass player and John James (lead vocals)."

Their dream to become the hottest band in Australia actually consisted of touring the local pubs.

"We were always kind of dreamers," Furler said. "Coming from Australia we didn't have the dreams American kids have because it's different down there. The best you could hope for was a pub tour."

"We didn't have MTV, and there weren't the huge concert halls to perform in."

Furler said as the band began to get serious about playing, they also started getting serious about being Christians.

"We were all brought up in the church," Furler said. "We weren't at first strong on the Lord. We were pretty rebellious. The first thing we did was play at pubs for beer and clubs for food. We were just playing whatever music was popular at the time or what we wanted to."

As the group's faith began to get stronger, Furler said the members decided to intertwine that faith with their music.

"We decided then that kids needed a good youth group to listen to," Furler said. "I think we were really led by our convictions. We weren't doing it for the money because at the time there wasn't any."

When the group did perform in a club, Furler said he didn't ask for top dollar.

"Whatever we made, that's what we ate with," Furler said.

"Most of the time when we went to a gig, we just got fed for performing. We put most of what we did make into improving our music and performance."

Since their arrival in the U.S. in 1989, the Newsboys have become one of the hottest new groups in the world. They recently made an appearance on Good Morning America and took part in World Youth Day in Denver, Colorado when the Pope visited the U.S.

They are currently continuing their 50-city-headline tour. What inspires these young men to perform?

Christmas wishes will come true

Dear Associated News,
I'm writing this letter in regards to your Christmas Wish contest. I have a neighbor and his two sons who I'd like to make a wish request.
The father is a diabetic who lives alone. His source of income is Social Security disability. This 42-year-old man has two sons 8 and 10 who visit him every other weekend. Most of this past summer the father spent a lot of time in and out of hospitals due to illness. His diabetes has affected his vision and has caused him to nearly go blind. Next week he'll be having surgery to attempt to help his vision.
This man was a very active man who no longer drives a car and has trouble walking to the nearby store. This man is a kind and caring divorced dad who is unable to get gifts for his sons. His income and food stamps hardly make ends meet. He's a proud man and I haven't told him that I'm writing this letter, so if his boys are granted a wish of toys, just contact me and I'll see that the father returns your call.
I know his boys would appreciate this wish. Even in the worst of times and health he is a good neighbor and dad.
Merry Christmas.
Romulus

I am writing regarding my friend. Her husband was diagnosed with cancer and is unable to work. His disability checks have not come through yet.
She is working trying to make a living for herself and her family. They have a 7-year-old little boy and two teenage boys. The 7-year-old doesn't understand why they can't have Christmas.
I would really appreciate it if you could give the family a Christmas. The family lives in the City of Inkster. The children's ages are 7, 17 and 18.
Wayne

To Make a Wish:
I have an adult friend who has high uncontrollable diabetes. She has a One Touch blood glucose monitor machine. She is in desperate need of the strips for the machine. Her insurance does not cover this item as she only has a county-issued form of Medicaid.
Also, she needs her medications for high blood pressure called Prinnil which is not covered at all either.
She cannot work due to her numerous illnesses which include terminal lung cancer. Any help would gratefully help her with her urgent situation. She needs three strips a day at $1 each and one pill a day at $1 each.
Thank you,
Westland

This is a holiday wish for someone I know.
She is 83-years-old, legally blind and has a heart condition and she is also a kidney dialysis patient. For the past four years she has to go to the Dialysis Center (Ann Arbor) three times a week - otherwise she is home-bound most of the time. Her daughter is 64 years old. They live together and her daughter cares for her by herself and has no other help.
Could you please find it in your heart to give her a nice large fruit basket with seedless grapes. She likes them very much. She likes tangerines and oranges and cranberry juice. She can also have ham and whatever they put in to make a nice basket. Please make her holiday wish happen.
She is a wonderful, beautiful person and in her younger years helped many, many people with her work and kindness to them.
Because she is my precious mother and I love her very much I'm writing this because she needs a shot of extra cheer and to know someone cares. She has no other children and I'm her total care-giver. I'm happy to still have her to care for. She has always been a wonderful mother.
Thank you.
Romulus

Dear Holiday Wishes:
I'm a single parent with one child who has quit my full-time job to be home with him due to his problems in school.
At present, I'm working a midnight part-time job to make ends meet. However, there will be no Christmas at our house due to over half of my income being cut.
My wish is for my son to receive some of the things on his Christmas list and to receive some fruit, holiday nuts and candy. The items on his list are as follows: Sega Genesis Jordan vs. Bird, Sega Genesis Arcade pad (Tour Us), Basic Erector Set, Steel Tec Wrench Set, Ice Skating Odyssey (Lego), and a Mountain Bike, all can be found at JCPenney.
Inkster

Dear Holiday Wishes:
Hello, I am a 20-year-old mother of two beautiful sons, ages 1 and 3 years.
Although they are provided with much love, affection and attention, I'm unable to provide them with a beautiful Christmas.
My 3-year-old son suffers from Spinal Muscular Atrophy which comes from the family of Muscular Dystrophy. It enables him to walk and stand alone.
Because of his extensive and expensive costs of care that's needed for him, I will not be able to have an enjoyable Christmas for both of my children.
Therefore, I'm writing you this letter, and just maybe, you can make my "holiday wishes" come true.
Inkster

Dear Holiday Wishes:
I am a single mom of two wonderful kids. I'm myself low in holiday spirits.
I find it much easier to give than receive. This year, which is why I'm making my wish. But one obstacle stands in our way. Being able to I know it's a great deal to ask for but any help. If you never had to manage without a vehicle be. You are unable to keep a good job or further, do the simplest things like go to the grocery store when they do well in school.
This is the only wish I have this year. If I receive this wonderful gift it will open many doors for this family.
This letter hasn't been an easy one to write, but start. Perhaps my letter will reach some kind soul and make a family's dreams come true.
Thank you for the opportunity to bring hope and that kindness can be found in everyone.
In closing I'd like to wish everyone at the Associated Newspapers a very Merry Christmas.

To Holiday Wishes:
On Oct. 16, 1993 at 7:10 p.m.
we lost our son, Joshua.
My wish to have him back can't ever be granted, so instead my holiday wish is to have the balance owed on his marker for the grave. It's very difficult to sit by his grave without a marker showing his resting place.
Thank you and God Bless.

It is the season of sharing.

And in the uncertain world of today, many lives are brightened and in some cases changed forever with the generous spirit of sharing of others in their community. For the past several weeks, we have been collecting Christmas Wishes from local residents who have a special situation or need during this time. While the response was tremendous, and the needs as varied as the readers we serve, the letters were touching, heart wrenching and a reminder of the good fortune we enjoy.

We have selected only 12 of the requests for help which we received. These 12 requests will be granted through the generosity and kindness of the businesses and merchants listed below. Each of them has given generously to participate in this community effort to help those with a problem or need during this time.

Other merchants and businesses have also been exceedingly generous and helpful, donating merchandise, food and services to help others. During the next few weeks, we hope to bring some of their stories to light and thank them for their help. Many of them, and those they have helped, however, have requested anonymity.

As you visit local merchants and businesses during the year, we hope you will remember the generous spirit of community and the effort these individuals have extended to help their neighbors.

Merry Christmas--and thank you, one and all.

The Associated Newspapers Staff

To whom it may concern:
My sister and I visit the Wayne Convalescent home on a regular basis.
We have four people we try to take of making sure they get the things they need. These elderly people have no family who come to see them. We made a mistake and told them we'd try to take them out to a Christmas dinner. We don't know what this would do to both our finances. We just don't see how we can do this. You see, little things mean so much to them. We tend to forget the elderly. But, if you could see the smile on their faces when you walk through the door it's worth a million. If we could give them this wish what a blessing it would be!
We thank you.
Wayne

The Christmas Season has always been a special, spiritual time for me. I get a joy out of picking just the right gift, wrapping it up and everything.

Two months ago I became homeless. I lost my job, my car broke down, what little money I had saved suddenly was gone. Things kind of snowballed.

You know you can prepare for almost anything but this. Most of the time I live in my car. Today I sold my last valuable item, my watch, so I'm staying in a motel. I need the sleep and warmth.

So, I don't know how I'm feeling about Christmas, I try not to give it much thought because I can't allow myself to feel sad and get down. Because it's not going to be this way forever.

Here's my Christmas Wishes - I have a nephew and niece who make me so happy and whenever I need a good laugh they're always there to lighten my mood. I've enclosed two of the gifts I would like them to have and I've always dreamed of taking Michael and Nicole to a nice clothes store like JCPenneys and getting them some really great outfits.

Thanks. Here's hoping that this wish comes true.
Canton Township

Christmas Wish:

I have a brother who is deaf. He has done a fantastic job with his life. He has a full-time job with the school district and has two lovely daughters and a lovely wife.
Unfortunately, with a handicap like being deaf, he doesn't have all the amenities that he would like to have in life. I know his one wish in life would be to hear his girls say "I love you dad," but that will never come true.

He and his wife are trying to remodel their home a little at a time, but due to financial straits they can't accomplish all that they would like. They have the original refrigerator and stove that were with the home they purchased 29 years ago.

I would love to see them have either a new stove or a new refrigerator this Christmas. I have been lucky to have my hearing and my health, and this would make my Christmas very special if they could have one of the appliances for Christmas.

They are very special people and never take advantage of their handicap and are very "proud" people. I'm very proud of them all of their accomplishments.

Sincerely

Westland

Residents oppose proposed street lighting in neighborhood

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

Westland residents with homes on Pattingill Street north of Cherry Hill Road voiced their disapproval of a plan to place eight overhead street lights on the dead-end street.

The total first year cost for the proposal to install eight 100 watt cobra head lights would be $6,724, according to figures provided at the Monday night public hearing in the Westland City Council chambers.

The Michigan Public Service Commission made a determination in 1991 that municipalities pay a portion of the original capital outlay. The city suggested contribution would be approximately $4,228 toward construction costs and Pattingill residents would be responsible for the remaining $2,496 or $164.02 for each parcel for the first year.

Residents would pay a total of $60.88 every year thereafter. The annual lamp charge of $2,496 includes maintenance and operation costs.

With a total of 41 parcels on Pattingill, residents submitted a petition in 1991 asking for street lights. However, one resident, who led the petition drive in 1991, said the petitioners only wanted one street light on the corner of Pattingill and Cherry Hill roads.

"We wanted one street light. We don't want eight," Pattingill resident Stephen Keller said.

Keller added that residents requested the corner light for better night vision when making a left-hand turn.

Pattingill resident William Simmons also expressed his displeasure with the proposed plan.

"I don't want them. There are 40 houses on this dead-end street. Eight lights are too much. It will look like a football stadium," Simmons said.

City Assessor Karen Hardin stressed that the public hearing was conducted Monday night to determine the necessity of the proposal and Council President Charles Pickering suggested concerned citizens circulate another petition before the next public hearing.

Hardin added that the cost of the project was determined by Detroit Edison.

"One problem we have is liability if we don't follow the recommendations of Detroit Edison," Finance Director Mike Gorman said.

Gorman said accidents and other problems may lead to lawsuits against the city if the recommended lighting is not installed.

Ousted college officials rehired

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

After firing two vice presidents last week, the Wayne County Community College (WCCC) Board of Trustees rescinded their action on Wednesday and re-instated the two officials.

On Nov. 23, the board fired vice presidents Ron Field and Ken LaSalle. During the same meeting, they voted to hire W. Rollin Henderson, chief accounting officer for the city of Detroit, who later turned down the appointment, and Greg Hicks, a former appointee of Mayor Coleman Young. The board also hired Detroit College of Law professor Martin Kotch as labor relations mediator and promoted Milan Chonich to dean of the downtown campus.

Ironically, the action came shortly after New Detroit, Inc. had praised the college for its financial and academic improvements.

Each vote was by a 5-4 margin with Trustees Sue Radulovich, Ollie McKinney, Juanita Ford, Larry Lewis and Charles Morton. The four trustees who did not support the firings were Denise Wellons-Glover, District 5; Edward Clemente, District 7; Charles Paddock, District 8, and Ted Scott, District 9, which encompasses western Wayne County.

Community pressure may have forced the board to overturn its decision. Angered by the firings, a coalition of community, civic, governmental, religious leaders and three trustees staged a Dec. 8 press conference during which an announcement was made of a lawsuit filed in Wayne County Circuit Court against the five trustees who supported the Nov. 23 firings. The suit alleges that Radulovich and Ford violated the board conflict of interest policy by voting to promote Chonich and hired Kotch. It also alleges that the Open Meetings Act had been violated by a secret meeting prior to the Nov. 23 board meeting.

Trustee Radulovich, who is an attorney, has come under fire recently for a possible conflict of interest. She represents Milan Chonich, a WCCC administrator, in a lawsuit against the college, but has denied that her role as a trustee presents a conflict in her representation of Chonich.

The lone WCCC center in western Wayne County, located on Haggerty Road in Van Buren Township, is currently operating on a small scale.

Making the grade

Mustang mania 3 generations serve customers

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

When Louis and Jane Kovach decided to buy a new car, they didn't have to ponder long about their decisions on the make, model or dealership.

The Kovachs, who reside in Van Buren Township, had purchased five new Ford Mustangs from Atchinson Ford on Belleville Road, and this year they decided to purchase their sixth.

"We bought a Mustang from Norman (Dutch) Atkinson in 1965. Later, we bought four Mustangs from Kurt Atkinson, who currently owns the dealership. This year, we did business with Todd Atkinson, Kurt's son and Dutch's grandson," said Jane Kovach. "It's pretty nice to be able to do business with three generations of Ford dealers."

On Wednesday, the Kovachs wheeled into the dealership in their 1965 Mustang - still looking stylish and smart. A few moments later, Louis Kovach got behind the wheel of the couple's new, black Mustang.

"After we bought our first Mustang in 1965, we went back to the dealership in 1971, 1976, 1981 and 1986 to purchase Mustangs. We decided recently that this was the time to buy another one, and we wanted to do business with hometown people," Jane Kovach said.

The Kovachs describe themselves as a Ford family. Jane Kovach has worked in the Ford service department at the Ford Rawsonville Plant for 31 years, and the couple's two sons are also employed by Ford Motor Co. - one in purchasing and the other in computer design.

Kurt Atchinson looked over the couple's 1965 Mustang and observed how well the 28-year-old car has held up during almost three decades of use.

"It's a pleasure doing business with long-time customers, like the Kovachs," said Atkinson. "The new Mustangs are getting a great response, and our customers are excited about them. Our Mustang sales are doing well," Atchinson said.

"It was exciting to do business with customers who dealt with my dad and grandfather," said Todd Atkinson. "It certainly wasn't a 'hard sell.' They knew just what they wanted, and it was a pleasure to deal with them."

After his father made the first sale, Kurt Atchinson, left, and his son, Todd, sold the next five Mustangs to Louis and Jane Kovach of Van Buren Township. ANP photo by Ken Garner

The fact that so many new Saturn owners are dishing out high praise for their car-buying experience isn't anything you'd call "dumfounding." To the contrary. Unless we're missing something, we happen to think that's how most people respond to being treated fairly.

Quote of the Week

"We've had more (student expulsions) this year than, I believe, we've had in the history of this district."

Wayne-Westland School Board President Francis Winter said at a Monday night school board meeting following the expulsion of a 10th grade Wayne Memorial High School student who was found to be carrying a concealed loaded .25 caliber semi-automatic revolver after a student fight outside the school on Nov. 8.

Members of St. Aloysius Church donated large amounts of baby supplies today immediately after the three morning Masses.

Persons wishing to add donations including new baby furniture, clothes, powders, cloth diapers, quilt materials, diaper bags, baby food, hats and sweaters are urged to drop them off at the Helping Hand Thrift Store, 37510 Huron River Drive on Tuesdays, Wednesdays or Thursdays between the hours of 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Further details can be obtained by calling the thrift store at 941-5323.

Gang activity suspected in fire

Westland Fire Department officials have determined the cause of a blaze set at the old Eloise Complex, located at 2345 W. Merriman Road in Westland, to be arson and suspect a local gang is using the vacated facility for a clubhouse, Westland Fire Marshall Patrick Harder said.

"A lot of gang graffiti was found on the walls," Harder said.

The fire was reported around 5 p.m. Tuesday and upon their arrival, firefighters located the blaze in the northeast section of the building on the third floor, according to police reports.

Unknown persons stacked wood, from wood doors and shelves, in a pile and set the wood on fire, police reports said. Harder said the wood was soaked with a flammable liquid found in the vacant building owned by Wayne County.

"There was very little damage to the building," Harder added.

"Fresh" gang graffiti was found spray painted on the walls in the area next to the fire, according to police reports.

3 arrested for theft

A Wayne man had his full-length leather coat stolen as he was walking on Michigan Avenue at Venoy approximately at 11:35 p.m. Dec. 2.

Wayne police arrested three Wayne men who allegedly took the coat right off of the victim's back, according to Wayne police Lt. Mel Drews.

"All were charged with robbery not armed," Drews said. "The investigation is being conducted by Sgt. Bob McIntyre."

A Dec. 15 examination has been scheduled for Timothy Mate, 18, William Channer, 18 and Thomas McGowan, 18, before 29th District Court Judge Carolyn Archbold.

Channer was arraigned Dec. 5 in out-county court and a $15,000 bond or 10 percent was set. McGowan was arraigned Dec. 5 in an out-county court and a $5,000 bond or 10 percent was set.

Audit uncovers $270,000 loss in court funds

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

The long-awaited results of the 34th District Court audit were released to the District Control Unit (DCU) this week, along with confirmation that $270,000 is unaccounted for in the Romulus-based court.

It is believed that the shortages resulted over a period of years, but officials decline to speculate on the circumstances surrounding the disappearance of the funds.

"At least, the amount of the loss has been confirmed," said Belleville City Manager Jeff Przygocki, who represents one of the five DCU communities. "This proves a need for a system of checks and balances in the court."

"The ball is in their court now. The court has to re-establish trust with us," said Przygocki. "Time and time again, we have been told by the court that our inquiries about court policies were none of our business."

"I think the system is broken," the Belleville city manager said. "There is a lot of anger and mistrust by the DCU members."

The district court serves Romulus, Belleville, Van Buren Township, Sumpter Township and Huron Township with a representative of each

"At least, the amount of the loss has been confirmed, this proves a need for a system of checks and balances in the court."

Jeff Przygocki

community serving on the DCU.

Van Buren Township Supervisor David Jacques also called for a system of checks and balances to be placed on the handling of court funds.

"The DCU will continue to hang tough to see that the court is accountable and that there is open communication and dialogue between the court and the five communities it serves," Jacques said.

In registering his dissatisfaction with the court, Sumpter Township Supervisor Marvin Banotai called for a split of the court, with the establishment of a court division in the township.

Chief Judge William J. Szlinis of the 34th District Court of Romulus released the contents of the internal audit of court finances that revealed the fund shortfall.

The audit report revealed "significant weaknesses in internal controls and accounting procedures that require corrective action by the 34th District Court."

"Missing revenue occurred due to material weaknesses in internal controls which allowed for voids to be completed with no re-entry being made and with no proper daily review and verification of voids," according to the report, which also noted that several of the 43 findings in the audit had been previously identified to the 34th District Court during a 1991 review.

The audit covered four separate court bank accounts from July 1, 1991 through June 30, 1993.

"The inquiry needs to go deeper in all district court operations. The courts have been unchecked and unmonitored for too long," said Jacques. "There are no standards of conduct or administrative procedures for the court. For example, no standards are set for court administrator's qualifications. Each court sets its own hiring practice. All of the district courts need practices and procedures and adequate checks and balances."

Since the bulk of the fund shortage impacts money due to the city of Romulus, where the court is based, Romulus city officials said efforts are being made to pursue what insurance or bonding company bears the liability in such cases.

Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally said she is distressed that Szlinis also "had an independent audit conducted by the Hungerford Cooper and Luxon Co. and has had the results for some time, which he refuses to share with the DCU."

Examination set for resident on assault charge

By JENNIFER PLACINTO

A 31-year-old Westland man was arraigned on four counts of criminal sexual conduct (CSC) against his preteen son before Westland 18th District Judge Gail McKnight on Friday.

The man was charged with two counts of first-degree CSC and two counts of second-degree CSC for alleged sexual acts with his young son over a one-year period, Westland police Sgt. Laura Moore said.

"He told the youth that this was the way he showed love for him."

Sgt. Laura Moore

"He was sodomizing and having oral sex with his own natural son for over a year. He told the youth that this was the way he showed love for him," Moore said.

"Now the child will equate homosexual acts with love," Moore added.

Moore said the man told his son not to tell anyone or "he would make his father go to jail."

The man was being held on a $10,000/10 percent conditional bond pending a Dec. 23 preliminary examination in 18th District Court. Bond was reportedly posted by the man's employment supervisor. He is prohibited from having any contact with youths under age 18 without another adult present, as a condition of his release while awaiting preliminary examination.

"He (the accused) filed for divorce prior to the mother finding out about this."

Sgt. Laura Moore

If convicted, the man would be required to have an Acquired Immune Deficiency System (AIDS) test and could face a maximum of 15 years in prison on the second-degree CSC charges and up to life imprisonment if convicted of the first-degree CSC charges.

The incidents allegedly occurred from Dec. 22, 1992 to October 1993 and the alleged sexual conduct was reported when the youth told his younger sister about the incidents and she in turn reported them to her mother, Moore said.

Moore also told the judge that the wife reported the accused had many guns and has made threats to his wife and threats on his own life. The man and his wife are in the process of getting a divorce.

"He (the accused) filed for divorce prior to the mother finding out about this. The boy probably felt more comfortable talking when the dad wasn't there," Moore said.

Murder, No Doubt is a true story based on Ruth Langlos and her 15-year crusade to correct an erroneous death certificate, according to author Dennis Niemiec, former managing editor of The Associated Newspapers. ANP photo by DiVizio/chief photographer

A question of murder Former Associated managing editor writes killer novel

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

A prominent Californian clinical psychologist is found dead in his office. There is a 300-pound table on top of his body, blood splattered on the walls and the office ransacked. The victim's credit cards missing are missing.

But the coroner rules that the psychologist died of a heart attack.

It was, however, Murder, No Doubt.

That is the title chosen by author Dennis Niemiec, a former managing editor of The Associated Newspapers for his book which brings to the written page the true and intriguing story of Ruth Langlos and her 15-year crusade to correct an erroneous death certificate so that her husband's killer could be brought to justice.

District assessment scores soar

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
ANP Staff Writer

Wayne-Westland students scores on the Michigan Education Assessment Program (MEAP) tests have improved overall compared to 1991 and 1992 scores.

"We still improved curriculum ... even with the political struggle and economic crisis in our district," Wayne-Westland Superintendent of Schools Dr. Larry Thomas said.

However, Thomas added, "I'm not happy until all of our scores are above the county average and every student receives an endorsed diploma."

The scores have increased 23.5 percent over the past two years. However, Thomas added, "Some of the scores are absolutely unacceptable in some sections."

"Fewer than 50 percent of our students are in the higher categories. Currently 41.2 percent of the students have improved 5-percent or more over the past three years," Assistant Superintendent of Instruction Dr. Jane Kuckel said.

Fourth, seventh and 10th-grade students taking the MEAP are tested on reading and math while fifth, eighth and 11th-grade students are tested on science.

"We have an increase in every category over the last two years," Thomas said.

However, Thomas added, two of the nine categories of testing did not show an increase this year.

McAnally said 34th District Court officials have been very vague about the exact amount of the shortfall and who the bonding and insurance firms are that bear the liability in this case.

"As far as the city of Romulus is concerned, we feel they literally stole the money from us." She said she would be glad when the day comes, when Romulus can ever feel the 34th District Court is open and candid with us.

City Treasurer James Napiorkowski added "the claimed $220,000 or more in missing funds is just the sum missing since 1991, and we have no idea if additional funds are missing in earlier years."

No report was released on the criminal investigation.

Szlinis also reported the selection of a new administrator, Michael W. Ramsey, a veteran court official who will begin his duties on Jan. 10, 1994. Ramsey is currently serving as the court administrator of the 55th District in Ingham County.

A press release from Szlinis revealed that last March he called for an "embezzlement audit" to be conducted by the Michigan Supreme Court Audit Department and a criminal investigation by the Michigan State Police.

"In addition, two staff were immediately suspended with pay," the press release stated.

In the past Szlinis had pointedly refrained from using the term "suspended" in regard to Administrator Nancy L. Schuette and her deputy, Tamara Riopelle. Both were listed until this week as being on paid leave up until their official departure from their court staff positions this summer.

Schuette reportedly resigned and Riopelle's job title was abolished.

Szlinis said the "progress and interim findings of the audit and the criminal investigation have been kept confidential...to protect the rights of the the staff and to ensure the orderly conduct of the court's business during this difficult time."

The chief judge said "I can assure you that I have been as anxious as anyone in this community to have this first phase completed as anyone in this community."

Szlinis added, "I am sure that you will agree that it was important that there be no shortcuts taken."

BOOK

"It is a true story," Niemiec said. "It is Ruth Langlos' courageous story. Of her fight against City Hall to change what obviously was an error so that the murderer could be brought to trial."

It is, as the subtitle of the book states, A Widow's Real Life Nightmare.

A suspect is arrested in possession of Langlos' credit cards. Other evidence incriminates him. However, since the victim's death certificate states that the cause of death was an apparent heart attack, the suspect could not be charged with murder.

Thus began Ruth Langlos' long and frustrating journey to correct an obvious error. An error that apparently took 15 years to set right. Running into detours and dead ends, Langlos finally is able to find her way out of the bureaucratic maze and convinces authorities that the certificate must be changed.

"It cost her her health and put her life on hold," said Niemiec. "It is sort of a story about fighting City Hall and winning."

But even at the doorsteps of victory, Langlos suffered yet another setback. Because it took 15 years to correct the mistake, the defendant's attorney argued that "because the suspect wasn't afforded a speedy trial, the case against him should be dismissed."

Niemiec, a longtime investigative reporter who has a score of literary awards to his credit, dug deep into the records, police files, newspaper clips and conducted hundreds of hours of interviews in putting together a story that the reader will find incredible.

Murder, No Doubt was released nationally in November. The book may be purchased in most local bookstores and at Borders Books & Music store in the Novi Town Center.

Raised in downriver community of Riverview, the 43-year-old Niemiec is presently residing in Livonia with his wife, Kerry, and their three sons.

Tenth grade math and 11th-grade science showed a slight decrease. Tenth-grade math scores decreased 1.4 percent and 11th-grade science scores decreased .3 percent from 1992.

Fourth-grade student scores improved by about 5 percent each year from 1991 to 1993, while fifth-grade students showed a 2.9 percent overall increase in scores. Seventh-grade student scores improved 1.8 percent in math and 8.6 percent in reading, while eighth-graders showed a 14.5 percent increase in their science scores, the highest overall improvement in the district.

Tenth-grade student scores improved slightly overall with a 1.2 percent score increase in math and a .9 percent increase in reading over the two-year period. Eleventh-grade test results show a 12.4 percent overall increase in science scores.

Despite improvement at the fourth and seventh grade level, Kuckel said, students taking the math section of the MEAP test need improved problem solving abilities.

"We can no longer be content with computation skills. We should take more of a problem solving approach with analysis and critical thinking skills. Most of the math questions (on the MEAP) are two and three-step questions," Kuckel said.

Kuckel stressed that curriculum development is needed in the junior highs and high schools because secondary students are not being taught the subjects prior to the MEAP testing.

"We need to redevelop the curriculum. Curriculum development makes a difference," Kuckel said.

Thomas said one of the specific problems in secondary education is that teachers need to coordinate when they teach a specific subject. Kuckel suggested mixing the subjects, instead of teaching one subject at a time.

"Integration is the key. We should mix algebra, geometry and other math concepts at the secondary level. K-8 is integrated. We need to integrate grades nine through 12," Kuckel said.

"This will teach them how to apply the skills they learn," Thomas added.

State endorsed diplomas will be given in 1994 based on 10th and 11th-grade MEAP scores and proficiency exams will be administered in the 11th grade beginning in 1997.

To receive a state endorsed diploma, until proficiency exams are administered, a student must pass all three MEAP tests in a particular subject. The student will receive a sticker on their diploma for each subject passed on all three MEAP exams (i.e. math, science and reading).

Kuckel said students must have a score of 500 or more on the math section, at least 75 percent on the science section and 300 or more on the reading section of the MEAP test to receive an endorsed diploma. Students can receive a maximum score of between 642 and 670 on the math section and between 339 and 350 on the reading section.

Plymouth-Canton students received record high marks this year on the Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) tests.

The MEAP, a state-mandated test given to students grades four, five, seven, eight, 10 and 11, assesses a student's essential skills and basic skills through three focus areas: reading, math and science. Each Michigan student is then scored based on a curve. Plymouth-Canton school officials said, "Scores in reading showed that about eight out of 10 students scored in the satisfactory or moderate category. Results show 76.2-percent of the fourth graders, 85.3-percent of the seventh graders and 80-percent of the 10th graders were included in these categories."

Similar findings are evident in the area of mathematics with 79.6-percent of fourth-grade students, 89.1-percent of seventh-grade students and 71.4-percent of 10th grade students passing with satisfactory and moderate scores.

Science scores also pleased educators with 83.8-percent of fifth graders, 77.2-percent of eighth graders and 62.4-percent of 11th-grade students receiving passing scores.

"These results are one tool

"We want to give parents a better idea of how their son/daughter did. Teachers will be able to go over the results with parents individually."

Dr. Thomas Tattan
executive director for instruction

we use to determine an individual student's specific strengths and specific areas of need," said Dr. Thomas Tattan, executive director for instruction K-12. They are a means to view an individual student's knowledge, and to help analyze how the student's instructional needs can best be met to make future educational progress."

School officials are pleased with the students' results, but not satisfied. "We will never be satisfied because it's a continuum," said Richard Egli, associate director for community relations. The state changes the target each year, based on the number of correct student responses, but as students improve their scores, the state changes the tests to make them more challenging.

"The purpose is to keep improving education throughout the state," said Ellison Franklin, curriculum coordinator for math and science in Plymouth-Canton schools.

Test results will be mailed to parents the first week of January with the opportunity for parents to meet with the teacher of their child in February.

"We want to give parents a better idea of how their son/daughter did," said Tattan. "Teachers will be able to go over the results with parents individually."

Test scores will determine if students receive an endorsed diploma or just a standard diploma from the state.

Romulus School District reported a continued improvement in Michigan Education Assessment Program (MEAP) scores, Superintendent of Schools Dr. William Bedell said.

"Although we are still not quite where we would like them to be, they're definitely headed in the right direction," Bedell said.

Student scores improved in all categories except 10th-grade reading, he continued.

"Perhaps of the greatest importance is the fact that the new technology systems seem to make a difference. For instance, the elementary schools that had the greatest gains in math and reading, were also the ones that had the technology in place the longest," Bedell said.

Some test score samplings included: in the fourth grade, 55 percent of the students moderate to satisfactory scores in mathematics and 60 percent did well in reading.

"This is a 10-percent improvement over last year's results," he said, and similar increases were reported in the fifth and eighth-grade science results.

FAMILIES SELECT SPECIAL TREES

Oh Christmas tree, Oh Christmas tree, Oh tree of green, unchanging.

The words of the old German carol remind us of how dear the Christmas tree is to our holiday tradition, and how important it is to our celebration.

For many people, choosing their own tree and cutting it down themselves is an annual event in which all of the family members participate.

"It's a lot of fun for families. Many of the same families come here year after year to cut their trees," said Shirley Younts of Shirley's Tree Farm. "Weekends are our busiest time, especially the last two before Christmas."

Younts said the tree-cutting period is also an enjoyable time for her family because they meet a lot of people and see a lot of old friends when they come to cut their Christmas tree.

"We have a lot of people that come year after year. We have good trees and our prices are reasonable," Younts said.

This is the seventh or eighth year that the more than five-acre tree farm on Hannan Road has been open, and it may be the last year for awhile.

"We've got some more small trees that we're getting ready, but we're getting pretty slim in the field behind our house," said Younts. "It takes six to eight years for the spruce to grow to the right size and about five years for the pines."

The tree farm started as a hobby for Jerry Younts, who loves trees and enjoyed planting and caring for them. "After awhile it just grew into a tree farm," she said. "The first year that we had people cutting their trees, Jerry didn't want to watch. He had worked so hard to grow the trees, that he hated to see them cut."

Although the season for tree cutting is short, there is a lot of work to be done to prepare the trees.

"We have to spray and prune. We spray for weeds, and then we cut down weeds and vines," she said. "All of our trees are hand pruned by my husband."

After all of the pruning, sharing, weeding and spraying, the Christmas trees are cut down, put into a truck or car trunk and transported to someone's home to be decorated, admired and adored - for a week or two.

Highlight home safety during holiday celebrations

Christmas trees, decorated with colorful lights and tinsel, add a special "spark" to the holiday season, but the wrong kind of spark could turn a holiday into a disaster.

Some 450 people nationwide die annually in house fires during the Christmas holiday period, double the number for any other two-week interval. In Michigan, 13 Christmas tree fires were reported in 1992, resulting in property losses totaling $235,600.

The following precautions were suggested by Van Buren Township Fire Chief Al Smolen:

- If you use a real Christmas tree, keep it watered. Also, keep the tree in water in a non-tip stand away from exits and sources of heat.
- Make sure tree needles are not dry or brittle. If they are, or if needles are falling, remove the tree from the house.
- Check all lights and electrical decorations to be sure they are in good condition. Examine light strands for cracked or frayed cords, and replace them if these conditions exist.
- Do not overload electrical outlets with too many lights or extension cords, and be sure that all decorative lighting is turned off when leaving home. In addition, make the holiday decorations safe for children and pets.

If you haven't completed your Christmas shopping, Smolen suggests purchasing smoke detectors.

"A good gift idea is to give someone you love a smoke detector as a holiday present. You could also give a gift of replacement batteries, marked specifically as 'smoke detector replacement' batteries," Smolen suggested.

For the first time, 13-year-old Joe Goodrich of Romulus (bottom, right) cut the family tree while his father, Steve stands by.
